Startup Pirates supports 1000 entrepreneurs setting sail with their business

16TH JULY 2012 by JAMILLAH KNOWLES

You may remember last month our own Robin Wauters was in Lisbon at the Switch conference and was shocked – shocked! to find out there are tech startups in Portugal.

Well, part of that story is an effort to support startups by the non-profit band of salty sea dogs known as Startup Pirates.

Startup Pirates 2012: Reconhecimento nacional e internacional

Last Tuesday we received an awesome e-mail letting us know that we were nominated for the London Web Summit People's Choice awards for the best Accelerators in Europe. We are already very happy to be among other great programs, but having the opportunity to be on stage to share Startup Pirates with the 1500 participants would make our day! We need to be in the top 4 to have that opportunity!

Help us achieve that by voting for us, simply hover your mouse over our logo and click the 'like' button.

1

Every member of the crew must be an entrepreneur. He shall be an activist, revolutionary and make the most of the opportunities.

4

Every single member of the crew has to commit with learning, because everything changes and constant learning is the only way to succeed.

3

No Pirate shall talk of giving up their way of living. A Pirate seizes the day and fights for happiness.

2

Each Pirate shall be bold, love the new, change the whole thing around and be always ready to fight.

5

Every Pirate must fight for what he believes. But if they defraud the company, they shall be marooned! None is allowed to quit, so, none will be marooned.

be brave,

be crazy,

be a Pirate!

6

A Pirate doesn't find limits nor in the sky, neither in the sea. The one that doesn't follow this, shall suffer the same punishment as in the former Principle.

10

Every member of the crew must be bold, open-minded and bright. Work hard, party harder.

9

Every Pirate shall be Passionate. The passion for what we do is what set us apart from surrenders.

8

A Pirate follows the map, because although plans can change, having one is important.

7

A Startup Pirate meets people in every docking port.
